CLASSIFICATION OF HOUSEHOLD SURVEYS AND CENSUSES VOLUME I

This publication presents the Botswana Classification of Households which is a coding scheme used for surveys and censuses. Statistics Botswana, as an organization mandated to produce official statistics, has to develop and operationalize national classifications which are in line with the international standards.

PREFACE

This publication presents the Botswana Classification of Households which is a coding scheme used for surveys and censuses. Statistics Botswana, as an organization mandated to produce official statistics, has to develop and operationalize national classifications which are in line with the international standards.

This classification is a local coding scheme which is to be used by members of the National Statistics System (NSS) in surveys and censuses. Its main purpose is to provide a standardized procedure for coding during surveys and censuses. All producers of statistics within the broader NSS are encouraged to use this classification in order for them to standardize the questions during questionnaire development. Apart from this, the scheme is meant to enlighten the NSS on statistical information and indicators produced by the organization.

Statistics Botswana as the coordinating agency will update this scheme from time to time as necessary. Thus, the next volume will include coding scheme for business surveys and administrative records. Users who require more information may send their requirements directly to the organization.

A. INTRODUCTION

The development, adoption and promotion of statistical standards are fundamental to providing high quality and dynamic service. The need for standards is an important feature of Statistical production as outlined in the statistics Act of 2009. Statistics Botswana is charged with the responsibility of collection and dissemination of official statistics, emphasizing the importance of data quality, to ensure that its statistical products and services satisfy user needs. In an effort to produce quality statistics, there is a need to adhere to relevant standards.

Common standards such as, specifications, classifications, concepts and definitions, policies, procedures, guidelines and other methodologies enable statistical data and information to be comparable, and hence facilitate analysis.

A1. Purpose of this document

The purpose of this document is to provide a database of standard classification of household surveys to be used by all sectors as a reference during the conduct of surveys. This would also help in the usage of statistics.

A2. The structure of the Document

The majority of the questions are drawn from the population and housing census questionnaire, which normally forms the basis for household surveys questionnaires and other censuses such as the Agriculture Census. These questions are further categorized by sectors. The questions covered under each topic are not exhaustive. Some questions can only be found in specific survey questionnaires. Therefore stakeholders are encouraged to view the subject matter questionnaires for a more in-depth understanding of the subject covered.

A3. Target audience

This standard is intended for use by all sectors working on the production of statistics, that is, from all aspects of the statistical value chain. The prime target audience is survey statisticians, system developers, data collectors, questionnaire reviewers, data analyst, policy makers and other interested stakeholders.

A4. Applicability of the standard

This standard should be applied in every phase of the statistical value chain (SVC) including:

- All current and new surveys within the National Statistical System
- Questionnaire reviews
- Quality check in survey evaluation and
- Dissemination
